

Barbara's Bakery in the News

The New York Times

Dining Out | Food Stuff

by Florence Fabricant

Tony Cenicola/The New York Times

A Zoo With Organic Residents

For the school lunchbox, an excursion or a snack with milk, there is a cookie worth considering: Snackimals, excellent animal crackers from Barbara's Bakery in California. They come in wheat-free oat, vanilla and chocolate chip flavors. The ingredients are organic and the cookies come in reclosable 7½-ounce sacks as well as single-serving pouches with 2½ ounces. The camels, elephants, bears and tigers are nondairy, vegan and kosher. The cookies are sold in natural and health food stores for around $4 for the big package, 89 cents for the small.

Circulation: 1,121,057
Impressions: 2,578,431

Wednesday, September 7, 2005
Page D2

